

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Systems and methods for measuring the performance of a scalable network are disclosed. In one embodiment, a system configured in accordance with this disclosure may comprise a packet generator for providing test packets to a network under test; and a packet count unit for counting test packet received from the network under test. The system may be configured to test networks of various bandwidths such as OC-3 and OC-12 level networks.